Tewksbury - Wilmington

Wilmington, Mass.

21ST YEAR - NO. 21 | 658-2346 | May 20, 2976 | 364 MIDDLESEX AVE., WILMINGTON TWENTY CENTS

Falls 35 feet from transmission tower

The midnight sky was lit up by a flash that could be seen for miles. That light came from the top of one of the towers which carries high voltage electrical wires across North Wilmington, and it occured just about midnight, Saturday.

A Wilmington youth, who had climbed one of the towers, and touched one of those high voltage wires, fell to the ground and was still alive when the ambulance arrived.

The youth, Kevin Graham of 135 Grove Ave., Wilmington, was taken to the Winchester Hospital, and later transferred to the Massachusetts General Hospital, in Boston. The report, Monday morning, was that he would be there for several months.

Graham was one of more than half a dozen young people, both boys and girls, who had gathered on the hill, off Upton Court, in a lonely spot. The area is some distance from the skating rink. Others in the group included Tom Jillett, Harold Tillotson, Arthur Campbell and John Crosson.

Something impelled Graham to climb Tower 197. Behind him was Jillett. Jillett is said to have told the police that when Graham reached the top of the tower he reached out with his foot and kicked one of the wires. The resulting electrical flash temporarily blinded Jillett. Graham fell to the ground, 35 feet below.

According to one report, which seems to have come from an eyewitness, Graham's body struck the struts of the tower as he fell, and this slowed his fall. It is said there are no broken bones. The information is not necessarily valid.

It was John Crosson who went to the Auction Hall, nearby, and called the police. Officers Joe Waterhouse and Al Venute responded in Car 32. Then all four cruisers were sent to the scene of the accident.

Waterhouse and Venute found Graham on the ground with severe burns on both legs and his chest. He was bleeding from the mouth and nose. He had several cuts on his chest.

Jillett was also sent to Winchester Hospital, suffering from shock.

The Bicentennial Room is to be dedicated at that time. The trustees and staff have assembled an interesting collection of documents and church silver, together with photographs and other treasures of the town, for the occasion.

The Wilmington Minutemen are to participate, in what is being called a Muster of the Local Militia. There is to be music, amusements and refreshments.

The invitations, on green paper, appear to have been printed on an old flatbed press, from the Colonial days.

Dr. William K. Widger was earth scientist

Dr. William K. Widger, former Wilmington resident and a well known educator and scientist died in Laconia, N.H. on May 4. Death came after a heart attack. He was 55 years old.

While in Wilmington, and while he was at the NASA laboratories he was active in the former Baldwin Club, and once was a candidate for election to the Wilmington School Committee.

He had over 30 years of research, development and management experience in industrial, academic and governmental organizations in the fields of scientific and applied meterology, satellite meterology and satellite remove sensing. He published his first paper on Satellite Meterology only one month after the launching of the Soviet satellite Sputnik I, and was one of the first, if not the first scientist in the world to use satellites to study the earth's resources.

A sidelight was his study of ice conditions on Lake Winnepesaukee, using photographs taken by satellite. He predicted annually, for many years, and as a hobby, the day of "ice out" on that lake, and his predictions were watched with eager interest by many persons.

He was the Chief of the Operational Meterological Satellite programs for NASA while in Wilmington. He was also the chief of Satellite Meteorology for the Cambridge Research Center of the Air Force. Later he was the manager of the Air Force participation in the TIROS project.

Dr. Widger was affiliated with Biospherics Consultants International for three and a half years and was also an incorporator of the BCI Map Corp and vice president in charge of operations at the time of his death.

His activities included preparation of a comprehensive summary of the R & D programs at Mount Washington Observatory, and preparation of a report on the pollution situation and potential of a central New Hampshire lake.

He had served as president of Belknap College, and prior to that he was professor of physics at the Drexel Institute of Technology.

He was the author of "Meterological Satellites" and the co-author of over 20 papers in scientific journals and an equal number of mechanical reports.

He is survived by his wife, Connie Keane Widger and daughters Dorothy Fisher and Barbara Widger, and two grandchildren.

A memorial service was held on May 8 at the Smith Meeting House, Gilmanton, New Hampshire. The Rev. Robert Sanders, formerly pastor of the Wilmington Congregational Church was the officiating clergyman.

Fred Jackson lost $1,000,000

FRED JACKSON: Shown busy at a Rotary luncheon, yesterday noon.

Fred Jackson, prominent Wilmington builder, last $1 million last night, in the Massachusetts lottery. The drawing was viewed by many, on Channel Five.

It was the most spectacular winning that Fred Jackson has been in. It was not the first.

Fred started his winnig streak a couple of years ago, when he drew the winning ticket for a Cadillac sedan, or $7,500. He took the money.

A month ago, Mr. Jackson won $1000 in the Massachusetts lottery. He is the owner of a season ticket. Winning $1000 starts a ticket holder toward greater possible winnings.

Tuesday evening he hit the jackpot for $10 thousand. That meant he had a chance for the $1 million dollar price, last night.

the refuse situation

At the present time there are indications that one or another of out-of-town firms will be collecting rubbish and garbage, and hauling that rubbish and garbage to an out-of-town location.

Some will cheer, and think this is good news. This column does not join.

At the present time the dump is privately operated. The refuse collection is a private business by a local man. The garbage collection is under contract to the town. The garbage is hauled to an out-of-town piggery, where displsal is no real problem.

If Wilmington gets rid of its private dump, the town can be subject to influences which it has not felt before. There can be strikes by unions, there can be increases in price from other sources. The town will have nothing to fall back on, if there is no private dump.

Dump prices could become an important part of the tax bill.

There is a private collection of rubbish. The price, for an average family is $24 a year. The service is good, and it is not expensive. Only rubbish is collected by this service.

Rubbish, without garbage, does not attract dogs. Rubbish barrels to not get tipped over by seemingly mysterious forces.

Such will not be the case when rubbish and garbage will be in the same receptacles. Dogs and birds will have their day, and there will be mixed rubbish and garbage strewn about.

This for an increase in prices - if not this year then three or four years from now. The prices to the average householder, in the form on increased taxes, will be considerable and irrevocable.

The advantages to be gained by an out-of-town collection, and out-of-town disposal are not many. The disadvantages are.

Capt. William Lecca was the Star

The star of the Liberty Pole raising, at Rotary Park Sunday afternoon was a somewhat corpulent gentleman by the name of William Lecca.

Ordinarily Mr. Lecca is like any other male resident of Massachusetts Bay Colony. He goes to work in the morning, and returns home at night to be greeted by his family. But there are special occasions.

On occasions he dons the red coated uniform of a Captain of the 64th Regiment of Foot, in the British Army as it was during the days of George III. The 64th Regiment of Foot attends occasional balls at which the British Consul might be present, and it attends other functions too.

It stars at the Liberty Pole functions of the Minutemen from Massachusetts Bay Colony.

Raising the Liberty Pole, of course, was an act of defiance to the King, and it is held annually in a number of Middlesex Villages and Towns. The 64th Regiment takes note of these occasions, and attends to assert the law, in the name of His Majesty King George.

THE REDCOATS ARRIVE: After the Pole Riasing, and Capt. Lecca orders it down. At left are the captains of the Woburn Minutemen and the Charlestown Militia.

Capt. Lecca was the British spokesman, Sunday afternoon, at Rotary Park. Behind him were four British soldiers, with fixed bayonets, and a couple of red coated officers.

His manner was haughty, and his accent was a good facsimile of the British accent. He ordered the rebels, the colonials, to desist, in his most lofty manner, and those dastardly rebels replied with jeers and insults.

Everyone enjoyed it. Capt. Lecca and his friends did their part nobly.

Then they marched off, to take the salute from the Wilmington Company of Minutemen, and then to Wilmington Common, where the Wilmington Company again took the salute from the participating organizations.

The very last person to arrive, after the Minutemen had broken their formation, was Capt. Lecca. He was too late to take a salute.

It was just what he expected. In no uncertain tones, and with a definite sneer in his voice he informed all who were listening to please understand that he was NOT a Minuteman.

MONICA ROGERS: Billerica Minutemaid, with a fife. She antecedes Women's Lib by about 200 years.

Shirley Callan has a peanut

Shirley Callan has returned from a trip to Baltimore, with a solid gold peanut, and the name Jimmy Carter on it. she is proud as can be of her trophy.

The Woburn Street lady was a part of the Carter team, during the recent primaries in Maryland, and was asked to continue, as a paid staff member and to go to San Francisco. Unfortunately she could fot accept.

Shirley spent a week or so, working with the Carter committee, knocking on doors and doing the things that are expected of political volunteers.

Tuesday, with Baltimore being flooded by rain, Shirley was on TV, wearing a big yellow hat, with a Brown Eyed Susan (the state flower). She was drenched, but she enjoyed it. She had a Carter balloon, and of course the Carter Peanut.

She appeared on TV at 6 p.m. Tuesday, with the new Democratic nominee for US Senator, Mr. Sarbenes, who will be running against the Repbulican incumbent this fall.

Mrs. Callan believes the gold peanut, the Jimmy Carter Peanut, to be the only one of its kind in New England.

A High School athlete prepares for the future

by Rick Cooke

Sadly, it is becoming most unusual when a heralded high school star chooses a college or university that will not only hold him in good stead athletically but will provide an outstanding education as well.

Joe Beaulieu made such a rare educational decision some weeks ago when he decided to play basketball for Coach Tom Sanders of Harvard University. The much heralded and sought after Beaulieu had been a roundball gem gazed upon by over 400 major colleges.

The 400 who had expressed interest in the 6.9 center's services included the top 20 nationally ranked collegiate basketball powers. Finally the mature young man had managed to reduce that number to eight. Boston College, Holy Cross, Penn., Marland, Duke, Stanford, South Carolina and Harvard were included among the ranks due for the final decision.

Beaulieu explained that he was satisfying a personal desire to take advantage of an excellent pre-medical program to prepare himself for a career as a pediatrician. Joe was ranked third in his class academically as a senior at Don Boxto. Basketball has come second. His education and career outside of basketball have been number one for Joe.

How many young men have played a high school sport thinking that the talent displayed in that particular sport was enough to provide for a secure future? How many have found out that the time not spent on the books cost them when they did get that shot at big time college ball. Or how many young men have found out that the talent displayed in high school just wasn't good enough to enable them to make a career out of it. Too much time spent on the court or the field and not enough on the studies can spell disaster for the young athletically minded adult who graduates from high school and finds that the dream of a career in sports has been shattered.

Beaulieu will not be able to play freshmen basketball at Harvard because the Ivy League prohibits freshmen from playing varsity basketball. Joe will have time to adjust. He will have time to put that extra effort in on the books. He will be furthering his career that may or may not include basketball. So if that disaster called injury should strike Joe Beaulieu, he will be ready to carry on. He will not be a sports "has been" searching for something that has been lost and can never be regained. Beaulieu is lucky. He has prepared and is ready to accept sports failure. A lesson can be learned by the decision that this young man has made.

WHS varsity, alumni baseball

The third annual alumni game will be played Saturday morning, May 29, at the High School field beginning at 10 o'clock. The record now stands at 1 - 1. Last year the Varsity defeated the Alumni 9 - 8 in spite of the pitching of Rocco DePasquale and Bill Ritchie, and the hitting of Ken Sugarman and Dave Fuller.

Any "old timer" who would like to participate, should contact Jim Gillis at 658-4580.

Mary McNaughton outstanding swimmer

Wilmington's Mary McNaughton, 10, has been named the 1976 Outstanding Girl by the Wakefield YMCA Swimming and Diving Team. The engraved plaque, presented at the team's Annual Awards Banquet, is given to that member of the Wakefield YMCS Swimming and Diving Team that by performances in both YMCA and New England Open Competition can truly be designated as outstanding.

In YMCA competition, Mary finished the second highest scorer on the Wakefield girl's team. When healthy, she was undefeated in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events. An attack of chicken pc. kept her from league honors at the District Championship Meet, but she partially recovered in time to capture a fourth place in the 100 yard freestyle at the New England Championships; and only a missed turn kept her from dual honors in the 50 yard freestyle as well.

In New England Open Competition, Mary is currently ranked third in the 100 yard freestyle; and has been submitted for top ten recognition in the 50 and 200 yard freestyle; 50 and 100 yard backstroke; 50 and 100 yard breaststroke; and 100 and 200 yard invididual medley (one and two lengths of each stroke respectively).

MARY McNAUGHTON: Proudly displays her award for the 1976 Outstanding Girl Swimming and Diving Team.

Mary was the second highest scorer on the Wakefield Girls' team.

Only a two year veteran of competitive swimming, Mary now moves up in age group to tough 11 and 12 category. Her performances have already elevated her to swimming's top echelon in the freestyle strokes in the older age bracket, and she expects to improve on her medley strokes at the Wakefield team's summer sessions.

A student at the Woburn Street School, Mary is the youngest child of Pat and Jack McNaughton, whose two sons Peter and John have competed for the Wildcat Varsity teams in numerous sports.

After a brief vacation Mary will return to the water with other Wilmington residents Chris Callan, Beth and Patty Conant, and Laurel and Ed Harding at the Wakefield summer team tryouts to be held at the YMCA in early June.

Wildcat tracksters gain split

The Wilmington High School track squad staged a major MVC upset Monday, May 17 as Coach Frank Kelley's crew beat the Billerica Indians 83 - 62. A sweep of the pole valut event keyed the Wildcat win. Robin Poirier, Dave McMillan, and Dave Meegan ran 1-2-3 in the event to stun the Indians.

Once again Bob Sferrazza was a winner in two events for Wilmington. Bob won the 100 yard dash and the 220. The Wildcat domination continued in the other events.

Gordie Fitch and Steve Winchell finished 1 - 2 in the long jump and Pete Brown and Ron Alphen pulled that same trick in the javelin event. The points kept coming as Winchell and Bob Lurvy finished 1 - 2 in the discus event. Other WHS mile; Dana Spring in the two mile; and Joe Tannian in the low hurdles.

Earlier in the week the Wildcats had their problems against Methuen as WHS could manage just six first place finishes. The Rangers pinned an 88 - 57 defeat on the Wilmington squad. The Wildcat winners were Pete Brown (javelin), Steve Napolitano (shot put), Gordie Fitch (long jump), Joe Tannian (330 hurdles) and Tony Gravellese who finished in a dead heat in the 440 race.

Bob Sferrazza gained three second place finishes in the high jump (3'8"), 100 yard dash (10.5) and 220 yard race (23.0).

Wilmington Rec soccer

Over the past two weekends the B team tied twice and the A team won one and lost one.

On Saturday the B team was caught from behind by Wellesley, 2 - 2. The B team opened up a 2 - 0 lead in the first half on goals by Steve Scanlon and Paul Sousa, both resulting from a lot of hard work and good moves. Unfortunately the two goals were not enough to win. The Wellesley team came out flying for the second half and scored twice to gain the 2 - 2 tie.

On Sunday the A team traveled to Billerica and lost a tight game 5 - 4. The A team was behind 3 - 0 but fought back to a 3 - 3 tie with goals from Chris Briggs, Cliff Hall and Eric Wood. The game didn't remain tied for too long because Billerica pumped in two goals to take a 5 - 3 lead. Wilmington again started to move when a Greg Wood corner kick was tipped in by John Connell to complete the scoring. Despite the 5 - 4 score the A team displayed some good soccer ability when both Eric Wood and Cliff Hall scored with their heads.

On Saturday the 15th the B team drove down to Sudbury looking for its first win, but couldn't pull it out against first place Sudbury. The B team looked good managing to keep Sudbury off the board and coming up with a 0 - 0 draw. It was a fine team effort lead by goal tenders Mike Corvino and Bob Canning. Wilmington had one goal called back when Steve Scanlon made a few fine moves and got the ball in the middle to Jim Burns who put an excellent shot into the far corner but the goal was disallowed because of a controversial offsides call. The next B tame will be Saturday the 22nd at the Shawsheen School in Wilmington starting at 3:30 p.m.

On Sunday the 16th the A team routed Marblehead 5 - 0, in a completely one sided game. Goals were scored by Chris Briggs (2), Steve Sunnenburg, alias Red Skelton, John Connell, and fullback Greg Wood who showed his all around ability by playing one shift on the line and getting a goal.

Goaltenders Pete MacMillan and Tom Ellsworth easily handled the few shots allowed on them. The A team had both the scoring edge and the physical edge in the game thus upping their record to two wins and four losses. Coach Maga's A team will play its next game at Burlington, kick-off time is 1:30 p.m.

Sewer program

Morris hopes for $6 million

Sterling Morris, Town Manager of Wilmington, is hoping to get a $6 million assist, in the paying of the costs of the $7 million sewer program, now starting in Wilmington. So he told some 60 persons, at a May 18th breakfast, a breakfast sponsored by the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce.

It will not be easy, he warned his listeners. "The Federal Register is full of things that you have to go through in order to participate in federal funding."

At the present time, he said, by combining federal and state funds available, it looks like Wilmington will be paid $2.6 millions of the $7 millions cost. He is hoping to qualify for the rest, to bring the totals to $6 millions.

Morris not only explained many points of the complicated program that is necessary today, to install a sewer, but he did so in a manner which had its share of humor.

Talking of the Middlesex Canal, for instance, and its historical place in Wilmington, Morris said "I can't go through it - I can't go over it, and I can't go under it. There is a state agency that wants us to dig test holes every 30 meters, for 14 miles. I am trying to avoid that - we might find an arrowhead!"

Another of the problems is how to get the sewer across Main Street. Morris revealed how the Water Commissioner (Arnold Blake) had been told by the Mass DPW that Wilmington could not cross Main Street for five years - because of the new hot top program just completed.

The current program, the construction of a sewer to the Silver Lake area, is the second step in a program that will eventually bring the sewer to North Wilmington, in the Ballardvale Street area, Morris said. The engineering for the second phase was paid for out of money obtained for the first phase - of which 75% came from the Federal government.

The Town Meeting voted last June to appropriate the necessary $7 millions, in bonds, and now Wilimington is in a position where it will probably be able to take advantage of the current $293 millions allocated to Massachusetts by the Federal Government. It is from that money that Morris is trying to get the $6 million reimbursement.

It will mean a lot of paper work, he told his audience, and "we may have to revise our assessments so we can take advantage of this federal program."

Installing the sewer is going to mean a lot of work. There will be five miles of trunk, or inteceptor sewer, and "Mr. Blake has figured out that there will be 14 miles of secondary sewers to be installed."

Mr. Blake, he added, serves without pay.

Part of his humor was in describing the events of the town meeting a year ago, in which some voters were feeling that the water rates should be changed. "Mr. Blake and I ran into a buzz saw" he said, and, describing the program of getting water onto Ballardvale Street, he said "we temporarily had to stop pushing water."

"The people of a community in this area," he said "do not co-relate the need for jobs - for employment, with the need for business in a community" was his observation. "That a sewer might help industry to locate in Wilmington has been cited as a reason to vote against the sewer program, in Town Meeting."

Fortunately, he indicated, the voters did not accept the reason. The first part of the program was the installation of a 36 inch main from the Woburn line to Eames Street. The second part will be to install a main up to Silver Lake, where it is much needed for the control of pollution.

That's no secret she is whispering into his ear.

AT THE CHAMBER BREAKFAST: Town Manager Sterling Morris, speaking on the sewer program for Wilmington.
Beyond the TM is Rep. Fred Cain, Chamber president Carl Melander, and John Brooks, chairman of the Schooi Committee.

Stacy's finger

JOE CUOCO: With hammer and chisel, working on the truck while Stacy and her mother watch.

A two-year-old girl from Rhode Island has learned all about those stake holes in the sides of pick-up trucks. Stacy is her name. She was a visitor Sunday at the Kiwanis Horse Show, at the Clark Farm in North Wilmington.

There were over a thousand visitors. There were horse vans, there were automobiles, and there were trucks - acres of them. In one of the trucks, brand new, was Stacy and her parents. Stacy was playing in back. Her parents were nearby. It was a safe place to keep a little girl.

Stacy, in her play, probed one of the stake holes. At the bottom was another hole, a small one, and into that Stacy put her finger. Then she could not withdraw it, and she began to cry. Things began to happen.

There was a professional ambulance service at the horse show. Two attendants came over to help.

Someone called the police and a cruiser and the Fire Department Emergency Truck showed up. A Wilmington fireman, laying on the ground beneath the truck tried to reach up to contact Stacy's finger. He couldn't reach it.

Stacy's mother amused the little girl, to keep her from crying. There was a game of suck-finger.

It was Officer Joe Cuoco of the Wilmington Police who released Stacy. He marred that beautiful truck to do it. Joe used a chisel and a hammer, and a pair of strong pliers to bend steel fenders to the point where someone was able to reach in, above the rear tire, and release Stacy's finger.

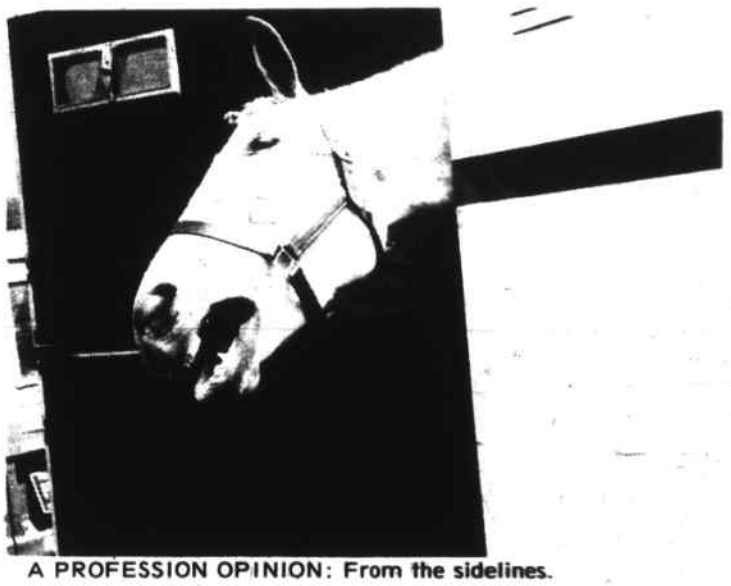

The entire job took about 15 minutes. There were no serious injuries to the little girl.
